as temporary, the house of representatives under a suspension of the rales, by a vote of one hundred and forty-four to only six pays, resolved "That this house cordially conours in the views of the secretary in relation to the unessity of the contraction of the currency with a view to the early resumption of specie payments as the business interests of the country will permit, and we hereby pleage co-operative action to this end as speedily as possible." Among the one hundred and forty-four supporters of this resolution I find the following who are to-day members of this house: Allison, Conkiling, Dawes, Ferry, Morrill, Bollins and Voorhees, Senator Bayard went on to show how this pelley had been abandoned and the notes reissued and kept in circulation. "During the debate," he said, "which attended the passage of the resumption act. THE PRESENT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, THE PRESENT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, Sherman, who had charge of the bill in this body, was asked by several senators, myself among the number, whether by the redemption of the United States notes under that act they were finally to be retired and destroyed, and he declined to give any construction whatever to he law on that point."

Senator Boyand — What construction that was?

Senator Edmunds—I voted for the act of 1875 because it seemed perfectly clear to me that the redemption it provided for was a redemption that took out, in point of isw. from existence all United States notes that should have come in in the method provided for in that act.

Senator Bayara—In the ability of the senator from Vermout to form an opinion no man has a doubt. At the same time, I repeal the measure was supported by gentlemen who had just been advocating infiation to the full extent of four hundred million collars. There was no reference made by me in my remark to the senator from Vermont. I was referring to the gentleman put forward by the advocates of the bill to answer for them, and who refused to p it a construction upon it. Continuing, Senator Bayard said that the issue of treasury notes

To this complexion have we come, that a proposition to adopt measures of admitted safety and wisdom to secure a permanent prosperity is called "tinkering with the finances. Mr. Fresident, such a condition of sentiment alarms me, and only causes me to be more vigorous in my efforts to secure my countrymen against such manifold dangers. Mr. Money contended that the bill made no appropriation, and therefore did not fall within the objection of the gentleman from Georgia [Biount].

Mr. Spear argued that the point of order was not well taken. He declared himself in favor of Star service, which had been too long neglected.

The speaker sustained the point of order.

Mr. Cook then withdrew the bill, in order to prevent its being sent to committee of the whole.

Meets Standiford, of the Great Railroad Octopus, and Confers with him as to the Future of the Two Lines Just Sold Ont.

What the Result is no Fellow Can Find Out-But it is Believed that Cole will Soon be President of Another Combination.

NASHVILLE, January 27 .- It is understood that the ratification of the lease of the Georgia Central railroad would bring about an amicable arrangement between Cole and the Louisville management, and that he might consent to take the presidency if allowed discretionary power of the system composed of This, however, is regarded as improbable. Cole will be the president of a system consisting of the Cincinnati Southern, Western and Atlantic, and Georgia Central. It is understood here that the presidency of the Cincinuati Southern has been tendered to Cole, and that it will be accepted. Should this be the result, it is predicted that Nashville will have a Cincinnati connection within six the late Captain Shep Jackson, and is well known months. The fact that Cole did not tell Standias an estimable young lady of this city. While we ford and Newcomb as to whether he would continue in his present office gives strougth to the belief that he has already determined to cast his lot with the Cincinnati Southern ple, after the usual congratulations, left for Louisin connection with the Western Atlantic ville, where they expect to spend a portion of that and the Georgia Central already under his

THE SPEECH made by Mr. Colyar at the merchants exchange, suggesting that the time had come when the legislature should take action with reference to railroads, was loudly applauded. He said that the recent "sell out" to the Louisville management had solidified the Tennessee representatives in congress on Reagan's interstate commerce bill-before that they had been divided in opinion. If the promise that the Louisville management would not discriminate against Nashville was intended to be carried out, it might be pracically shown by an amendment to the char-railway. General Manager De Funiak expressed emphatic disapproval of the recent ing the competitive cities by the throat, and said that it had done the road and Louisville more damage than could be for Atlanta, and will continue in conference along the road: but it is now conceded tha Cole will be president of the Cincinnati
